

SD-WAN AS A SERVICE

The most flexible, global SD-WAN as a Service Solution available in the market today

OVERVIEW

As enterprise cloudification continues to accelerate, reliable access to application workloads and consistent application performance across multiple clouds are critical for the enterprise and its users. The increasing threat landscape and distribution of confidential data across multiple clouds make it critical for any SD-WAN solution to have native security features and to work seamlessly. The combination of SD-WAN and security is required to enable users to safely access business-critical applications while delivering application performance that enables productivity for the enterprise.

CHALLENGES

- Legacy MPLS contracts with high cost, diminishing relevance and the lack of flexibility and scalability.
- Enterprise Cloud and SaaS adoption expose network performance gaps and security issues.
- Legacy VPN and Hybrid workplace solutions aren't aligning with current workforce requirements.
- Enterprises require all global locations to have a single, consistent solution and support model.

Client needed a rapid deployment, lower costs and Global consistency

As the client's WAN edge infrastructure was aging, and MPLS contracts were coming up for renewal, they needed;

- A solution that could be delivered quickly, competently, and with minimal disruption to the business.
- A partner that matched their global requirements to improve security, productivity, processes and reduce costs.
- A competent partner to deliver and maintain their critical environment, while enabling their cost competitiveness.
